RURAL AMBASSADOR AWARD 2018

---

The Royal Agricultural Society of Western Australia gratefully acknowledges the generous support and sponsorship provided by the Rendezvous Hotel, Scarborough.

The Rural Ambassador Competition is a national competition aimed at young adults from rural areas who have a passion for living and working in their communities.

The competition aims to discover the next generation of rural leaders who have the desire to represent and promote their community, their region and their state. Successful entrants are given the opportunity to meet and network with like-minded representatives from around the state, around the country and around the Commonwealth. You will meet state and federal decision makers and leaders in agriculture and education, be able to input your point of view, ask hard questions and make important contacts.

The only requirement for entry is a passion for agriculture and rural Australia, and a desire to challenge yourself and have a good time.

So if this sounds like you, contact your local Agricultural Society for entry details.

COMMENTS FROM PAST ENTRANTS

LUKE HALL, 2017 STATE WINNER

I would love for there to be a specific subject and assessment in all schools devoted in agricultural studies. I am then sure people in the general community would have an appreciation of the basics of farming practices. With better education and communication, farmers would have the shared support they need to ensure best practices continue. Community being educated of where food comes from explaining of the issues to the broader community would be lessened to what exists now exposed from ill-informed parties , or what see and hear from social media.

Education is the only way for our community to learn about how and why we farm the way we do, through education it will ignite a flame in a person who has otherwise had no exposure to the industry, helping to make technological breakthroughs in all levels of Agriculture, or find the solution to a problem we never knew we had. Who knows, exposing agricultural studies in the early years that would be background of their knowledge, a decision or policy maker could make beneficial changes to the industry all because they were taught the basics in school.

BRAD KUPSCH, 2016 STATE WINNER

2016 Rural Ambassador Brad Kupsch, a mixed grain and livestock farmer from the Allanooka region, is using his appointment to inspire others to look at agriculture as a rewarding choice of profession.

“I want farmers to be viewed with the same professionalism as doctors, lawyers and other top end occupations - not enough credit is given to farmers for the good work they do,” said Mr Kupsch, who believes diversification creates strength and opportunity.

“When a grain grower diversifies into beef, his business gains diversity and strength from the ever tumultuous commodity markets,” he said. “More diverse enterprises call for more advisory specialists to help, such as agronomists, vets and nutritionists.

“A calling for more skilled labour and advisory positions would not only create interest in agricultural uni degrees, but jobs located in rural settings.”

JESS WARR, 2015 STATE WINNER

Jess Warr is using her year as Rural Ambassador to encourage women and children who have left country WA to return to their hometowns.

“Young women have a wealth of knowledge and experience to commit to local endeavours and organisations. I am passionate about the role of women in rural communities and the opportunities for them to contribute.

“My main goal is to promote the education of the wider community and share the opportunities that are available in close-knit country towns.”

CALLUM WESLEY, 2014 STATE WINNER

It's a great avenue for networking – apart from getting to know other Rural Ambassadors across the country really well – who I keep in touch with through social media – I was also able to get to know and network with other people within the agricultural society at the Sydney Royal Show. Heaps of agricultural people go there so it is certainly a good place to network as well as a way for me to add to my skills by learning how to answer tricky questions, public presentations and speaking.
